TUESDAY, JUNE 9, 1868.

Local Items.

BUTTER.—The price of butter in our market to-day was about the same as last week, though the tendency seems to be a little upward. From 30 to 32 cents was the usual price, but some brought as high as 33 cents, and a little choice extra went higher. The amount brought in for shipment was 742 tubs, averaging 50 pounds each, making 37,100 pounds in all.

No cheese to speak of was brought in. Prices, as last week, 10 to 14.

PERSONAL.—Major A. A. Gibson, of the U. S. army, commanding officer at Fort Warren, Boston Harbor, who was in command of the troops stationed here during the Fenian move in 1866, arrived in town last night, and is now stopping at the Welden House.

Hon. W. C. Smith arrived at home, from Washington, last night, accompanied by his family.

Gen. O'Neill, the Fenian leader, passed through St. Albans on Saturday evening, but did not stop here. The news about the movement of arms was not authentic.

The senior member of the well known firm of Ball, Black & Co., of New York, is now at the Welden, we believe for the season.

MOVING.—The gas receiver in use at the old gas works formerly, was moved to-day down to the vicinity of the new works, preparatory to use there.

FRUIT raisers think that strawberries will be ripe this season about the date they disappeared from the market last year.

THE New England Agricultural Society will hold its next annual fair at New Haven, Conn., during the first week of September.

SECOND VERMONT.—The fourth annual reunion of the Second Vermont Regiment will be held in Burlington on Monday evening, June 23d. Col. Chas. H. Joyce will deliver the address. The railroads carry for half fare.

LAKE CHAMPLAIN.—On Monday June 1st, the steamer Montreal commenced running the day line through the Lake, leaving Plattsburgh 7 a. m., Burlington 9:30 a. m., making the usual landings, connecting at Whitehall with trains south and west; returning arrive at Burlington 3:30 a. m., Plattsburgh 5:30 a. m., connecting with trains for Montreal and Ogdensburg. By this arrangement two daily lines are afforded each way on the lake.

FAIRFIELD.—We are informed that at the second meeting of the tax-payers of Fairfield, held on Saturday last, to vote upon accepting the enabling act for railroad purposes, the vote stood 27 majority for accepting it. It will be remembered that the first trial resulted in a heavy majority the other way.

DEATH OF AN AUTHOR.—Hon. Daniel P. Thompson, of Montpelier, author of "May Martin, or the Money Diggers," and the well-known work, "The Green Mountain Boys," and for a time editor of the Freeman, died at his home in Montpelier on Saturday, June 6th. He was born in Charlestown, Mass., but his parents removed to this state soon after his birth, and located in Berlin, near Montpelier. After graduating at Middlebury College in 1820, he went to Virginia, teaching for a while, and was admitted to the bar of that State, where he practiced law. After a few years he returned to Montpelier, where he resided until his death.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.—Bishop Bissell, the new Episcopal Bishop of Vermont, preached last evening in St. Paul's Church, to a large audience, including many of our denominations. Rev. T. A. Hopkins, Rev. John Henry Hopkins, and the Rector, Rev. Mr. Atwill, officiated in the service.

Bishop Bissell is a man of full stature and dignified presence, with gray hair, a bright eye, and lines of earnestness and force in his pleasant countenance. His subject, appropriate to "Trinity Sunday," was the office, personality and divinity of the Holy Spirit, and the way in which the Spirit may be "grieved." It was a simple, earnest and effective discourse.

After the close of the service, a number of the audience, aware that the present would be the last opportunity to hear Mr. Moore (who leaves for California on Thursday) upon the organ, waited in the church, and Mr. Moore played to them for half an hour or more. Among the beautiful pieces played by him was an improvisation, of sweet and mournful strains, introducing the air of "Sweet Home," the title of which, if one was given to it, would have been, we suppose, "Mr. Moore's farewell to Burlington." There was a streak of sadness, to all, throughout, from the strong feeling of the loss which our musical community suffers, in the departure of Mr. Moore. Burlington can never, we are sure, seem like aught but "home" to him, and we trust will again be so in fact as well as in seeming, in years to come. Meanwhile many wishes for his health, happiness and welfare, will follow him wherever he goes, from the numerous friends he leaves behind him.—Free Press 8th.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

VERMONT DAILY TRANSCRIPT is the title of a new daily paper published by Willard P. Davis of St. Albans, with whom A. Barnes is associated in the editorial department. Terms $8.00 per year. We have received one number of this paper, and it makes a good appearance in paper, typography and editorial ability.—We wish it all success, and shall be glad to welcome it to our table.—Vermont Chronicle.

A spirited little paper is the Vermont Daily Transcript, now in the first month of its existence, and published at St. Albans. It says: "The good appearance and life of our paper are not due to any spasmodic effort, but are destined to continue just as if nothing had happened." This decided us at once to place the paper on our exchange list, where it may long remain.—Daily News, Montreal.

The proprietor of the Vermont Transcript has recently started a daily edition of that spirited sheet. It is very creditably got up, contains the latest telegraphic and local news, besides much miscellaneous matter. We have no doubt it will receive that success which it richly deserves.—St. John's News.

We neglected—for which we are sorry—to notice the arrival of the Vermont Daily Transcript last week. This is the title of a new, sprightly, clean-looking, well-edited and snappy little daily paper recently started at St. Albans. Although we hardly see how a village with not over 4,000 population can well support two daily papers, yet we are convinced that the right spirit backs the new venture—a spirit of wide-awake enterprise—and we wish it much success. Please exchange, Brother Davis, and send bill for difference.—Frontier Record and Farmer.

We add the above to the list of notices with which our enterprise has been kindly favored by our editorial brethren, and return our thanks for the compliments bestowed. We feel no less complimented by the generous patronage of our citizens, in encouragement of our enterprise. As the Record has indicated, it is not an easy matter to make a daily paper remunerative in a village of the size of St. Albans; but "where there is a will there is a way," and the people are aiding us fairly in keeping the way. We have started and continued thus far, as we mean to continue; and think, as others have kindly expressed, that we furnish a sheet in the proper sense "readable." Our aim is to make a paper from day to day that shall be worth the patronage of the public at the price asked. We strive to make our paper as neat as possible in appearance, and to leave no room for spasmodic improvements in that line. We are not hating for support upon anybody's coat tail, and would readily give up the ghost rather than become a party mendicant. We don't intend to offer our paper at half-price, or "at any price you have a mind to pay," because it is not our way of doing business, and we are not reduced to the necessity of such unparalleled generosity. We intend to keep the "even tenor of our way," be up with the times with news, publish as much reading matter in a year as any paper of our size, and trust the public to suit itself with what it likes best—whether our own paper or any other. If the people can "see the point" that it is more to their advantage and the credit of the place to patronize a well-conducted, courteous, and well-printed daily paper here, than to neglect it and pay their money for city papers, we shall not fail to try to make their patronage return them and our place and vicinity a fair per cent. We are thankful to those gentlemen who have interested themselves, unsolicited, in procuring additions to our daily and weekly lists, and assure them that they are casting their bread upon the right waters. If our friends will keep saying a good word, and doing the good deed for us, the return which we shall be able to make will be better than promises.

PATENTS.—Among the patents issued June 2d were the following:

Hosea Willard, Vergennes, Vt., for improvement in butter worker. Reissue to Colby Brothers & Co., of Waterbury, Vermont, assignees of Harvey Murch, two patents, for improved mop head. Patented June 14, 1868. Extended seven years.

Visit of the Chinese Embassy to the House.

Interesting Letter from Chief Justice Chase.

HE FIGHTS FOR PRINCIPLES!

Latest from the Plains !!!

"LO! THE POOR INDIAN."

WASHINGTON, June 9.

The galleries of the House were crowded this morning to witness the visit of the Chinese embassy. At eleven o'clock Mr. Burlingame entered escorted by Gen. Schenck, and followed by the two Ministers escorted by Messrs. Banks and Brooks. The secretaries of legation followed. The Chinese were gorgeously attired, but their silk robes and turndown hats gave some of them a decidedly feminine appearance. Speaker Colfax made a neat speech of welcome, to which Mr. Burlingame made an eloquent and appropriate reply. The Representatives and those Senators who were present were then introduced, and the usual hand-shaking and bowing followed.

NEW YORK, June 9.

The Herald prints a private letter of Judge Chase, in which he says he is amazed at the torrent of invective by which he is drenched. He says he has not been a partisan for or against impeachment. He says: "I shall not abandon the great principles for the success of which I have given my entire life. I adhere to my old creed of equal rights, without one jot or tittle of abatement. I shall be glad if the new professors of that creed adhere to it as faithfully. The real ground of displeasure is that I have not been a partisan for conviction. This denunciation I am willing to bear. They may
